Course Description

This course will present a history of Islamicate civilization, with particular emphasis on the first three hundred years. Utilizing New Historicist theory, we will critique conventional understandings of history while evaluating “minimalist” reconstructions of the origins of Islam and the Quran. Throughout, we will critically reflect on “history” as a strategy for myth-making and power-structuring, whether in the madrasahs of Islam or the classrooms of the university. Key questions will entail: Whose past is being narrated? Who is telling the story? For which audience does a particular historiography create understanding and power?

This course follows the academic mandate set out by Bruce Lincoln:

*When one permits those whom one studies to define the terms in which they will be understood, suspends one’s interest in the temporal and contingent, or fails to distinguish between ‘truths,’ ‘truth-claims,’ and ‘regimes of truth,’ one has ceased to function as a historian or scholar. In that moment, a variety of roles are available: some perfectly capable (amanuensis, collector, friend and advocate) and some less appealing (cheerleader, voyeur, retailer of import goods). None, however, should be confused with scholarship. (“Theses on Method,” Method and Theory in the Study of Religion 8, 225-7; 1996)*

Student Responsibilities

Attend, Understand, Analyze—three fundamental academic tasks.

Learning Assessment

Two Midterm Exams – Oct 15 and Nov 17 (15% each)

You will be given opportunity to demonstrate your understanding of the class discussions in two midterm exams.

Final Week Debate (10% of course grade)

In the final week of class, you will participate in a debate that will require you to draw on the entire course and to demonstrate on your feet what you have learned.

Three Equally-Weighted, “Research-Directed” Assignments (60% of course grade)

These assignments will allow you to develop the skills necessary for writing a good academic paper:

1. demonstrate your understanding of a scholarly position by reducing the principal argument of an assigned reading to a single paragraph, sentence, and headline. Due Oct 8.
2. demonstrate your critical engagement with scholarship by submitting an annotated copy of an assigned reading. Due Nov 5.
3. demonstrate your abilities to do undergraduate research by locating two academic sources that disagree significantly with an assigned reading and summarizing broadly the discursive field constructed/represented by the three differing positions. Due Dec 3.

**There will be no Registrar scheduled final exam for this course.*

NOTE:

- while it is permissible to register in this class as late as the end of the second week, it is not advisable. If you have joined the class late, you should realize that significant course material course has already been presented and that your late arrival places you at some disadvantage.
- tests and assignments must be written/submitted on the dates scheduled. No exceptions will be made, except for death, significant illness, or domestic affliction (corroborated by a valid, original note from a physician or counselor). You should contact the instructor within twenty-four hours of a missed exam or deadline.
- please note that the University of Calgary regulations strictly prohibit the following during examinations (the penalty for which is suspension or expulsion or such other penalty as may be determined):
  - speaking to other candidates or communicating with them under any circumstances whatsoever;
  - bringing into the examination room any textbook, notebook, or document not authorized by the examiner;
  - leaving answer papers exposed to view
  - attempting to read other student’s examination work.
- the assessments offered in this course will be geared to rewarding students who are conscientious in their attendance, participation, and preparation of classes.
- computers should be used for note-taking purposes only. Extra-curricular computer activities will result in the suspension of computer privilege, perhaps even for the entire class.
- if you are anticipating a class absence you should find a classmate willing to loan his/her notes; no lecture notes will be available from the instructor.
- recording of lectures is not permitted, except by special permission.
- a 5%/day late penalty will be levied for all late submissions. Late submissions must be placed in the Department’s assignment drop-box (SS 1301), where they will be date-stamped.
- class schedule, readings, and additional relevant materials will be posted online.
- you must “back up” all submissions. No concessions will be made for papers lost.

Grading Scale

A numerical grade is assigned for each course requirement. Following the final graded component, a letter grade is assigned, using the department-approved table of equivalencies:

A+ 100-96	B+ 84.9-80	C+ 69.9-65	D+ 54.9-53
A 95.9-90	B 79.9-75	C 64.9-60	D 52.9-50
A- 89.9-85	B- 74.9-70	C- 59.9-55	F under 50

N.B. All written assignments will be graded with regard to both form and content.

Important Dates

Please note the information regarding withdrawals and fee refunds in the current University Calendar.

Academic Accommodation

If you are a student with a disability who requires academic accommodation and you have not registered with the Disability Resource Centre, please contact their office at 403-220-8237. Students who have not registered with the Disability Resource Centre are not eligible for formal academic accommodation. Once registered, please discuss any upcoming tests/examinations with the instructor two weeks before the scheduled date.

Lecture Recording

Recording any part of any lectures in any form must be first approved by the instructor in writing and is for individual private study only. See current Calendar, Tape recording of Lectures.

Safewalk Program

"You don't have to walk alone...." Call 403-220-5333 and a member of the Safewalk Team will walk you to your car, the LRT, or any destination on campus. Safewalk is available to all students, staff and faculty any time of the day or night. Look for the Campus Security Help Phones located throughout the University. Please don't hesitate to call!
