COURSE DESCRIPTION:

This course is a survey of South Asian history from the Indus Valley Civilization up until the beginning of European colonialism. Our study will mainly take place through reading primary source texts from Indian traditions in translation (the Embree textbook) and discussing the ways in which historians interpret those primary sources (the Trautmann and Thapar textbooks).

COURSE LEARNING OUTCOMES

By the end of the course, students have fluent knowledge of the history of South Asia and will understand the role of religious traditions in shaping social and political systems.

LEARNING RESOURCES, required textbooks:

1. India: A Brief History of a Civilization, by Thomas Trautmann (ISBN 9780190202491). This book is also available as an ebook. In general, Monday lectures will focus on the material from this book.
2. Sources of Indian Tradition, Volume 1: From the Beginning to 1800, by Ainslie Embree (ISBN 9780231066518). EXPECTATIONS FOR WRITING

All written work will be assessed on the basis of both content and presentation. Poor quality writing (e.g., excessive grammatical errors) or careless presentation (e.g., excessive typos) will result in lower grades. With respect to this policy, students should note the University’s policy on Writing Across the Curriculum, section E.2 of the Calendar:

“Writing skills are not exclusive to English courses and, in fact, should cross all disciplines. The University supports the belief that throughout their University careers, students should be taught how to write well so that when they graduate their writing abilities will be far above the minimal standards required at entrance. Consistent with this belief, students are expected to do a substantial amount of writing in their University courses and, where appropriate, members of faculty can and should use writing and the grading thereof as a factor in the evaluation of student work. The services provided by the Writing Centre in the Effective Writing Office can be utilized by all undergraduate and graduate students who feel they require further assistance.”

ATTENDANCE AND PARTICIPATION EXPECTATIONS

Participation will not be graded in this class, so that students who have to miss class due to illness will not be penalized. However, students are strongly encouraged to attend class and to participate in class discussion. Active attendance and participation will ensure greater success and higher marks on the take-home exams.

GUIDELINES FOR SUBMITTING ASSIGNMENTS

Take home exams will be taken through the Quiz section of D2L. The essay will be submitted in the D2L dropbox.

CONDUCT

All discourse in this class, whether in person, via email, or over Zoom, is to be expressed in a manner that is respectful of your fellow students, teaching assistant, and instructor. Students are welcome, though by no means required, to share insights from their own cultural traditions if they feel it will add insight to the texts we are discussing. Thus, students are also reminded that while the primary texts we are discussing in class were written centuries or even millennia ago, they are revered and celebrated within vibrant, living religious and cultural traditions to this day. Criticism of these traditions is fair game during discussion, but should be expressed in a manner that is respectful of the traditions and their contemporary adherents.

USE OF INTERNET AND ELECTRONIC COMMUNICATION DEVICES IN CLASS

Students are permitted to use any electronic devices they deem necessary to support their learning in this class, including during class time. It is the responsibility of each individual student to ensure that electronic devices are supporting, rather than distracting from, their learning during class time.

GUIDELINES FOR ZOOM SESSIONS

To help ensure Zoom sessions are private, do not share the Zoom link or password with others, or on any social media platforms. Zoom links and passwords are only intended for students registered in the course. Zoom recordings and materials presented in Zoom, including any teaching materials, must not be shared, distributed or published without the instructor's permission.

The use of video conferencing programs relies on participants to act ethically, honestly and with integrity; and in accordance with the principles of fairness, good faith, and respect (as per the Code of Conduct). When entering Zoom or other video conferencing sessions (such as MS Teams), you play a role in helping create an effective, safe and respectful learning environment. Please be mindful of how your behaviour in these sessions may affect others. Participants are required to use names officially associated with their UCID (legal or preferred names listed in the Student Centre) when engaging in these activities. Instructors/moderators can remove those whose names do not appear on class rosters. Non-compliance may be investigated under relevant University of Calgary conduct policies (e.g. Student Non-Academic Misconduct Policy). If participants have difficulties complying with this requirement, they should email the instructor of the class explaining why, so the instructor may consider whether to grant an exception, and on what terms. For more information on how to get the most out of your zoom sessions visit: <https://elearn.ucalgary.ca/guidelines-for-zoom/> .

If you are unable to attend a Zoom session, please contact your instructor to arrange an alternative activity for the missed session (e.g., to review a recorded session). Please be prepared, as best as you are able, to join class in a quiet space that will allow you to be fully present and engaged in Zoom sessions. Students will be advised by their instructor when they are expected to turn on their webcam (for group work, presentations, etc.).

The instructor may record online Zoom class sessions for the purposes of supporting student learning in this class – such as making the recording available for review of the session or for students who miss a session. Students will be advised before the instructor initiates a recording of a Zoom session. These recordings will be used to support student learning only and will not be shared or used for any other purpose.

COURSE EVALUATIONS AND STUDENT FEEDBACK

Course evaluations will be administered in class towards the end of the semester.
