Course Description

This course is a study of the principles and techniques of technical communicating. We will be experimenting with the analysis of needs, and with different approaches to meeting them, ranging from the research phase, through outlining and drafting, and up to final layout and formatting principles. Collaboration with class-room colleagues will be crucial, as will regular attendance.

Objectives of the Course

Through analysis of selected technical documentation and directed practice, students will develop competence in the presentation of technical information for a variety of audiences, in a variety of situations, to achieve a variety of typical purposes.

Internet and electronic communication device information

I make no demands upon you in this regard.

As one consequence, students should identify themselves on all written work by placing their name on the front page and their ID number. Also you will be required to provide a piece of picture identification in order to pick up an assignment or look at a final exam from SS320 after classes have ended.

For more information see also <http://www.ucalgary.ca/secretariat/privacy>.

Writing Skills Statement

Department policy directs that all written assignments (including, although to a lesser extent, written exam responses) will be assessed at least partly on writing skills. For details see <http://www.comcul.ucalgary.ca/needtoknow>. Writing skills include not only surface correctness (grammar, punctuation, sentence structure, etc) but also general clarity and organization. Research papers must be properly documented.

If you need help with your writing, you may use the Writing Centre. Visit the website for more details: www.efwr.ucalgary.ca

Grading System

In this class, you will receive grades in the 4-point scale (2.7, 3.0, 3.3) rather than percentages. (Actually, your grades will be expressed in letters, as listed below, with an arithmetic conversion scale attached.) Sometimes you may receive grade points between letter grades (though not from me). 3.5 is the mathematical mid-point between a B+ (3.3) and an A- (3.7) and 3.15 is the mid-point between a B (3.0) and a B+ (3.3), etc. (obviously.)

The following grading system is used in the Department of Communication and Culture:
(Revised, effective September 2008)

Letter Grade	Grading Scale	Grade Point Value (see U of C Calendar: Academic Standing)
A+	96-100	4
A	90-95.99	4
A -	85-89.99	3.7
B+	80-84.99	3.3
B	75-79.99	3
B-	70-74.99	2.7
C+	65-69.99	2.3
C	60-64.99	2
C-	55-59.99	1.7
D+	53-54.99	1.3
D	50-52.99	1
F	0-49	0

Plagiarism

Using any source whatsoever without clearly documenting it is a serious academic offense. Consequences include failure on the assignment, failure in the course and possibly suspension or expulsion from the university.

You must document not only direct quotations but also paraphrases and ideas where they appear in your text. A reference list at the end is insufficient by itself. Readers must be able to tell exactly where your words and ideas end and other people's words and ideas begin. This includes assignments submitted in non-traditional formats such as Web pages or visual media, and material taken from such sources.

Please consult your instructor or the Writing Centre (MacEwan Student Centre 4th floor, efwr.ucalgary.ca) if you have any questions regarding how to document sources.

Additional Information

* Class Participation and In-Class Assignments will be based primarily on short projects assigned and completed in class (and/or between one class and the next), and graded within those parameters.
