Course Description

The course maps aspects of spectatorship, audience, and reception approaches as they intersect with the experience and study of cinema. The course provides students with tools to appreciate film as an interactive medium of communication. It explores these approaches with emphasis on spectatorial agency, resistant and subversive reading, and hegemonic and counter-hegemonic readership and production. Prerequisite: FILM 201.

“The history of the American cinema is not the history of its products any more than the history of railroads is the history of locomotives,” writes Richard Maltby in an essay we will read in this course. The implication is that our understanding of film is incomplete if we do not take into account the complex and diverse ways in which audiences “receive” film texts. In this course, we seek to develop the critical and theoretical toolkit necessary to do just that, recognizing, as Wolfgang Iser once put it, that “the ‘stars’ in a literary text are fixed; the lines that join them are variable.”

Objectives of the Course

The overarching goal of this course is to introduce students to the variety of methods and theoretical approaches used by scholars interested in taking account of film audiences and film reception. In so doing, we will cover a broad variety of disciplinary ground and nearly a century of different approaches to the study of media reception.

At the conclusion of this course, students will be able to:

- Produce a sustained written analysis that incorporates ideas that are introduced during the course
- Demonstrate a sophisticated understanding of the variety of methods available to reception-oriented scholars, and articulate the benefits and shortcomings of those respective approaches
- Write a term paper that follows all appropriate academic protocol

Internet and electronic communication device information

Students are welcome to use laptops and other electronic notetaking devices in this course. That being said, the classroom is a space for learning, and I expect that students' behaviour will reflect a shared appreciation for the importance of an open and high-level discourse within the classroom. Towards that end, the use of laptops should be strictly limited to the purposes of taking notes. Laptops (and all other electronic devices) are expressly prohibited during course screenings. Likewise, mobile phones and other devices are prohibited at all times. Failure to respect these rules may result in a lower participation grade, or revocation of your privileges to use devices in the classroom.

Additional Information

Attendance at lectures and screenings and informed participation are essential components of this course and will help determine your final grade. Students must come to class prepared to discuss the required reading. Some of the materials and topics presented in class may include explicit content (sex, violence or language). If these materials make you uncomfortable, you are encouraged to speak with the professor. You will not be exempt from any class assignments but we will work together to accommodate your concerns.

Assignments and Evaluation

Assignment	Weight
Participation Students are expected to regularly attend class and actively participate in class discussions. Full marks will be given to students who regularly demonstrate through their participation in class discussions an engagement with the course readings and screenings.	10%
In-Class Presentation Students are required to plan for and lead class discussion on one reading of their choosing during the course of the semester. Depending on course enrollment, students	15% may be asked to work in groups. Readings will be assigned during the first course meeting.

Screening/Discussion Reports (750-1000 words) 25%

Following the in-class presentation, students are required to individually write a short essay informed by the class discussion that they led. This essay is due the following Thursday (one week after the in-class presentation), and should be submitted in hard copy.

Abstract and Annotated Bibliography (250-500 words) 15%

In advance of the final paper, students are required to submit a 250 word abstract outlining the argument they expect to make in that assignment. In addition, students should submit an annotated bibliography of at least three sources. This is due on November 7, and should be submitted in hard copy.

Final Paper (2000-2500 words) 35%

Students are required to write a research paper investigating a topic of the student's choosing, per my approval. The expectation is that the student's argument will reflect a significant degree of engagement with existing scholarly literature, and/or a demonstration of significant original research.

Papers are due on the last day of the term (December 6), and should be submitted via the course website.

All assignments must be completed or a grade of F may be assigned at the discretion of the instructor.

It is the student's responsibility to keep a copy of each submitted assignment.

Note: Please hand in your essays directly to your tutor or instructor if possible. If it is not possible to do so, a daytime drop box is available in SS320; a date stamp is provided for your use. A night drop box is also available for after-hours submission. Assignments will be removed the following morning, stamped with the previous day's date, and placed in the instructor's mailbox.

Registrar-scheduled Final Examination: No

Please note: If your class is held in the evening, the Registrar's Office will make every attempt to schedule the final exam during the evening; however, there is NO guarantee that the exam will NOT be scheduled during the day.

Policy for Late Assignments

Assignments submitted after the deadline will be penalized with the loss of one-third of a letter grade (e.g.: A- to B+) for each day late. Quizzes and examinations will not be rescheduled except in the case of medical emergencies. Students without proper medical documentation will not be permitted to make up missed quizzes or examinations.

Freedom of Information and Protection of Privacy Act

This course is conducted in accordance with the Freedom of Information and Protection of Privacy Act (FOIP). As one consequence, students should identify themselves on all written work by placing their name on the front page and their ID number. Also you will be required to provide a piece of picture identification in order to pick up an assignment or look at a final exam from SS320 after classes have ended.

Writing Skills Statement

Department policy directs that all written assignments (including, although to a lesser extent, written exam responses) will be assessed at least partly on writing skills. For details see <http://comcul.ucalgary.ca/needtoknow>. Writing skills include not only surface correctness (grammar, punctuation, sentence structure, etc) but also general clarity and organization. Research papers must be properly documented.

If you need help with your writing, you may use the Writing Centre. Visit the website for more details: <http://www.ucalgary.ca/ssc/writing-support>

Grading System

The following grading system is used in the Department of Communication and Culture:

	Grading Scale
A+	96-100
A	90-95.99
A -	85-89.99
B+	80-84.99
B	75-79.99
B-	70-74.99
C+	65-69.99
C	60-64.99
C-	55-59.99
D+	53-54.99
D	50-52.99
F	0-49

Where a grade on a particular assignment is expressed as a letter grade, it will normally be converted to a number using the midpoint of the scale. That is, A- would be converted to 87.5 for calculation purposes. F will be converted to zero.

Plagiarism

Using any source whatsoever without clearly documenting it is a serious academic offense. Consequences include failure on the assignment, failure in the course and possibly suspension or expulsion from the university.

You must document not only direct quotations but also paraphrases and ideas where they appear in your text. A reference list at the end is insufficient by itself. Readers must be able to tell exactly where your words and ideas end and other people's words and ideas begin. This includes assignments submitted in non-traditional formats such as Web pages or visual media, and material taken from such sources.

Please consult your instructor or the Writing Centre (3rd Floor Taylor Family Digital Library, <http://www.ucalgary.ca/ssc/writing-support>) if you have any questions regarding how to document sources.

Academic Misconduct

For information on academic misconduct and the consequences thereof please see the current University of Calgary Calendar at the following link;

Students with Disabilities

If you are a student with a disability who may require academic accommodation, it is your responsibility to register with the Student Accessibility Services (220-8237, <http://www.ucalgary.ca/access/>) and discuss your needs with your instructor no later than fourteen (14) days after the start of the course.
